

TIMELY TOWN TALKS

PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Are You in Favor of a Curfew Law for Gettysburg is the Question of Week?

Being asked what we thought of the contemplated improvements to the Presbyterian Church, of course it was up to us to say that that was a matter for the congregation and that any expression on our part would likely be simply a butting in and as this performance of butting in is always uninvited it is also very rarely appreciated. However the conversation developed some talk that may be worth while repeating.

"No change to the outside of the building is contemplated except the repainting of both brick and woodwork. The beautiful and picturesque growth of vines on the church walls will remain. The suggestion was dropped that if the outside walls were given a coat of stucco of a dark gray color and roughed so as to give an appearance of a style of a century ago that the general effect would be to increase the colonial architecture of the building and in view of the handsome post office just across the street the heightening of the colonial effect on the outside would give emphasis and attract attention.

"The larger part of the contemplated improvements will be given to the inside of the building and there seems to be a consensus of opinion that the inside is capable of being vastly improved and the hope has been heard expressed that all changes will be along the line of the colonial. With quiet cathedral windows of a type to be found in churches of a hundred years ago it would be possible to give an effect of a pure colonial type that would distinguish it from the modern church interior and invite every visitor to see a rather rare type. Through the east there are churches still standing of the colonial period and in many of them the modern is taboo and they are landmarks of the nation and so preserved. The two types of the colonial in this place are the College Lutheran and the Presbyterian and the opinion has been heard to be expressed that the type should be preserved and is most worthy of preservation, with which expression we believe the rest of us will agree.

"At the conclusion of the conversation the hope was expressed that whenever it became necessary to increase the seating capacity of the church, the new style chapel should give away to an extension of the church in its present style and a restoration of a colonial interior with pews of colonial design.

"The question one neighbor is asking another these days 'Are you in favor of a curfew law? Should the Town Fathers ordain such a law?' That is not as easy a question to answer as it sounds. The word curfew has an attractive sound, it recalls a beautiful poem, and the association of ideas would work in its favor, but it is a negative proposition. It says to children, 'Thou shalt not.' Of course there are many harmful things in themselves about which it is necessary for the law to say thou shalt not, but the matter of a child being on the street after a certain hour of the evening is not an evil in itself but can become an evil under circumstances or can be made an evil through legislation. It is so easy to prohibit a thing and then conclude that the result aimed at has been reached. A town has been heard of with an affirmative constructive curfew law that has been successful and a blessing. Those interested did not say to the children thou shalt not be on the street after a certain hour, but in effect said come let us have a good time at play and in other ways every evening and then when the curfew rings you won't want to be on the streets. Every activity for the child should be encouraged, special features arranged by parents and grown-ups at the playground, the school buildings should be used for social center purposes and when the activities of children would be exploited every evening and under the supervision of grown-ups, why the greater number of children would be going to bed or asleep at curfew time and it would ring a benediction instead of a prohibition. Let us hope that when the curfew comes to Gettysburg it will be along constructive lines, awakening parents to the joys of health and recreation and inspiration to be given children in the evening, in which the grown-ups could have a very active part and then children would not be on the streets but in company with parents and the latter would be benefited likewise in the renewal of youth to be had through the children.

Outlook for College Best Ever.
Gettysburg College will open in less than two weeks, on Sept. 15, and the prospects are for the largest attendance the college has ever had. The Senior class of last year numbered 41 and the new Freshman class already in sight is over 100 and there will be additions to the other classes and the total number of students in college and Prep will likely go over the 400 mark for the first time in the history of the institution. The prospects are bright for good athletic material. Coach O'Brien is expected next week. The new professors of electrical and mechanical engineering, Prof. Stephen F. Wing, formerly of Cornell University, arrived this week with his mother and is staying with Mrs. Sheely on Springs avenue and later will occupy the house on Broad street vacated by Mr. and Mrs. John Reed Scott.

Prof. Shipperd of Harvard University, the new English professor is expected on Sept. 7, and will occupy as soon as he can get into it, the Winter house on Broad street now occupied by Frank R. Peckman. Prof. Macdonald, the new professor of Finance and Economics, is expected to arrive next week. The last word from Prof. B. F. Schappelle, who has been spending the summer in France, is that he expects to arrive here about Sept. 20.

The college world in this place will take on new dimensions with the arrival of the new professors and their families. Many new students are being attracted here by the new engineering and other courses and Gettysburg College is going forward into the new epoch that is bringing new buildings, enlargements and improvements.

School Opens.

The public schools of town opened on Monday with the largest attendance in the history of the town, 718. In the High School department the enrollment was 163 with prospects for several additions. In the High Street building there are 282 children and in the Meade School 280 and Colored School 23.

The High School Faculty has been strengthened. In addition to the efficient corps of teachers in that department, Miss Bernadetta Thomas takes the place of Miss Helen Kendelehr. Miss Fox in charge of the Domestic Science department is assisted by Miss Frieda Bausch in the sewing work. Raymond Michener will take charge of the manual training department and help in other school work.

Gettysburg offers the children of the town the best High School course that the town has ever had, a most attractive one and one that can not help but be of incalculable good in the training of the children. It is to be expected that the classes going from the Grammar to the High School will be larger in the future, so that more children will in the future have the benefit of the High School course.

Town Council.

The Town Council on Tuesday evening received a petition from the W. C. T. U. organization of the town asking for a curfew law to take children under 16 off the streets after 9 o'clock in the evening. No action was taken, the petition being laid aside.

The Council authorized the naming of a committee to inquire into and look over the books of the Burgess in order to ascertain how much he owes Council for collections made and Councilmen Gilbert and Trostle were named as the committee. The collection of all licenses, permits, etc., was turned over to the Chief of Police.

The Sewer Committee was directed to make a 90 foot extension to accommodate properties on Railroad and Stratton streets and was also authorized to clean the septic tank of the sewer system as directed by the State Board of Health and to continue to use the chemicals at the tank.

The Ordinance Committee was instructed to draw ordinance requiring all autos entering and leaving garages to stop and blow their horns before crossing pavements.

One hundred citizens complained about the noisy W. M. Engines during the night and Secretary was instructed to send notices to railroad concerning matter and also the placing of flagman at Buird avenue and Springs avenue and West Middle street.

Borough Attorney by his report made it plain that the first square of York street had obtained their good street upon broken promises. Only $75 of the promised $250 had been paid and the borough may lose $175. An offer to compromise at $40 including this year's tariff was submitted and Council asked the figure to be raised to $100.

Baseball Scores.

At York on last Thursday the Semi-Professionals defeated the Gettysburg team in a fast game by score of 2 to 1.

On Saturday on Nixon Field Gettysburg lost to Hanover by score of 4 to 2, giving Hanover 5 of the games played and Gettysburg 2. The tie game is not counted. The ninth game of the series was played at Hanover on Thursday with another tie score.

On Tuesday the home team defeated the Susquehanna A. C. by score of 2 to 0.

A good game is expected on Saturday when the Red Lion team will be pitted against Gettysburg on Nixon Field.

Another Barn Burned.

The barn on farm of George Ficks in Huntington township burned to the ground on last Saturday morning at a loss of several thousand dollars. The tenant was awakened by the flames and when the family reached the burning building they were only able to save the seven head of horses and the cattle. Mr. Lobaugh, the tenant, had his arm and side painfully burnt in making the rescue. Mr. Lobaugh lost all this season's crops, some implements and harness. There was $600 insurance on building in the Germania-Burg Mutual Fire Insurance Society.

Racing Matinee.

The third racing matinee of the Great Conewago Trotting Association will be held at its track in Stratton township today, Saturday, Sept. 5th. The track is in better condition than at previous events and some good racing is expected. Twenty-five horses have been entered for the races. The events have been arranged in four classes.

PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING

ENTERLINE-WEAVER NUPTIALS IN REFORMED CHURCH.

Four Bridesmaids and a Maid of Honor are Attendants of the Bride.

Miss Nellie Rhodes Weaver, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio T. Weaver of this place, and Leroy E. Enterline, Esq., of Ashland, Pa., were united in marriage on last Friday evening in Trinity Reformed Church. Long before seven o'clock every seat in the church was occupied and a number of people were standing and when the church doors closed at seven a goodly number arrived late who were unable to be admitted. The church was lavishly decorated with ferns and green plants and yellow and white flowers. Great banks adorned the chancel and were arranged on either side, the sun flower being the predominant feature of the decorations.

Miss Louise Stahlte at the organ had charge of the program of music that preceded and immediately before the ceremony Mrs. Ethel Thompson of New York City, sang "O Perfect Love." As the wedding party entered the church the Lohengrin march was used. The party moved in following order: First the four ushers, Maurice S. Weaver of Gettysburg, Dr. J. McCrea Dickson of Philadelphia, Charles N. Neiman of Ashland, and George D. Enterline of Shamokin. Next came the bridesmaids in white lingerie, evening gowns with girdles of green meline, wearing lace castle caps and carrying baskets of nasturtiums. They were Miss Mabel Sheetz of New Oxford, Miss Mildred Stauffer of Walkersville, Md., Miss Edmonia Nolley of Baltimore, and Miss Janet Cunningham of Fairfield. Miss Hattie Erlenbaugh of Altoona was maid of honor, and was gowned in green crepe de chine and carried a basket of nasturtiums.

The bride proceeded to the altar on the arm of her father. She wore a handsome gown of white satin, train trimmed with princess lace. The veil was of duchess lace and she carried bride's roses. The groom with his best man, George K. Shearer of York, met the wedding party at the altar. Dr. T. J. Barkley performed the ceremony, using the ring service of the Reformed Church. The Mendelssohn march was the recessional as the wedding party left the church.

A reception was held immediately afterwards at the home of the bride on Baltimore street, where several hundred friends during the evening gave their blessing of best wishes. About half past ten Mr. and Mrs. Enterline went by automobile to York and from there on a wedding trip, after which they will be at home at Ashland.

The groom graduated from Gettysburg College in class of 1908, was in business in this place for a short time in firm of Rupp & Enterline. He attended the Law Department of the University of Pennsylvania and is a practicing attorney at the Ashland Bar. The bride attended Woman's College, Frederick, and has a host of friends in this town and county. Many very beautiful and valuable presents were received.

The out of town guests were S. M. Enterline, Ashland; Mr. and Mrs. Stauffer of Walkersville, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Kleinfelter of Chestertown, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Smith of Baltimore; Mrs. D. K. Houck and Roy Houck of N. Y. City; Miss Fannie Ross, Miss Fannie Shower, Manchester; Miss Grace Fleck, Altoona; Miss Ethel Nicodemus, Walkersville; Miss Mollie Reus of Baltimore; Earl Nicodemus of Altoona; Samuel Stevenson of Darlington, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Irvin J. Batdorf, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Batdorf, and Miss Etel Batdorf of Harrisburg; Mr. and Mrs. Elber Ball and Miss Marian Ball of Mahanoy City; Mrs. Cornelius Miller of Manchester, Md., and Miss Fannie Brown of Baltimore; Dr. and Mrs. Sheets, Miss Marion Sheets, John Miller and the Misses Hersh of New Oxford; Miss Elizabeth Gint of Hanover; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Tyson, Miss Mariel Tyson and Miss Corinne Tyson, Florida Dale; Mr. and Mrs. William C. Tyson, Guernsey; Mr. and Mrs. Grey Bigham and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sanders of Biglerville; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Knox and family of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Polly, Miss Helen Cunningham and Miss Scott of Fairfield; Byron Horner and Miss Margaret Horner of Knoxlyn; Misses Sarah and Ruth Brumbaugh of Reading Spring, and Adolph Ranges, Esq., of New York City.

ROMANS-STARR.—Plus Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus F. Robinson, and Miss Sarah Staud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Staud, all of New Oxford, were united in marriage in a nuptial hall mass in the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Tuesday morning by the Rev. Fr. Shields.

MYERS-SANDY.—Ralph D. Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Myers, and Miss Margaret Sunday, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sunday, both of Reading township, were married Sunday, Aug. 22, at the Lutheran parsonage in Abbotstown, by Rev. F. C. Sterner. The bride is a graduate of the East Berlin High School in the class of 1911 and taught three terms in the public schools of Reading township.

LEWIS-ATBERT.—On Sept. 1, at the home of the bride in Latimore township, Miss Clara V. Albert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Albert, and Harvey F. Lerew of same township, were united in marriage by Rev. Paul Gladfelter.

Prisoners Sentenced.

On Saturday last, business was transacted by President, Judge S. McC. Swope and Associate Judges W. Howard Dicks and Leo Sneeringer as follows:

On petition of F. C. Riley, assignee of the estate of Emory C. Zepp and wife, Wm. B. Weikert and Jas. H. McCullough were appointed appraisers of the assigned estate.

In the divorce case of Joseph Henry Kuhn vs. Mary M. Kuhn, Hon. Wm. McClean was appointed master to take testimony and report facts.

Wm. Arch. McClean, Esq., was appointed auditor to dispose of exceptions to the first account of James W. Barnitz, Esq., executor of the will of Edward Stough, late of New Oxford, deceased, and to report distribution.

Wm. McSherry, Esq., was appointed auditor to distribute the balance in hands of Charles T. Hersh, assignee of the estate of Noel and Hulick.

Charles E. Stahlte, Esq., was appointed auditor to distribute the balance in the hands of Geo. W. Spangler, sole surviving executor of the will of Michael. Spangler late of Gettysburg, deceased.

C. W. Stoner, Esq., appointed master in the divorce suit of John T. Lawver vs. Emma L. Lawver.

In the suit Harry M. Golden vs. John B. Poiry, Admr. of Louisa Poiry, motion was made for compulsory non-suit for failure to pay costs of term on continuance of case of April term.

An order was made for the public sale of the personal estate of Harvey Good by the assignees, C. C. Bream and Lewis D. Sell, Esq., and a credit of two months to be given.

The case against Harry W. Snyder, charged with desertion of wife and three-year old child was heard. The husband is a chauffeur and as such has been employed for some time at Shamokin. He manifested a willingness to support his wife and child. The wife was Mrs. Laura Snyder nee Plank and has been employed in the Trostle Shirt Factory. The arrangement made was for her to go with the child to Shamokin about the 1st of October. The husband paid the costs and the case was dismissed.

Harry Miller, who pleaded guilty to exhibiting lewd and obscene pictures was sentenced to jail for one month. He said he came from Harrisburg and committed the offense through drink.

W. W. Brown, colored, who pleaded guilty to furnishing liquor to Joe Yohe, an intemperate man, was sentenced to jail for two months. Judge Swope stating that that was the full punishment provided by law, but not at all sufficient for the evil deed.

Harry Pitteaurt of Gettysburg, nearly eighteen years of age, pleaded guilty to stealing a ride and subsequently selling it, it being his first offense, he was paroled for two years subject to general good behavior and was ordered to pay the costs at the rate of one dollar per week, beginning September 15. He had been working as a tailor.

Harry Taylor, colored, convicted of carrying concealed razor and also held on surety of the peace on complaint of his wife, stating that he was willing to go back to Carlisle, from whence he had been sent by Judge Sadler, was told to go. This looks like a game of shuttlecock. It is to be hoped he will not return.

Mary Plank, who pleaded guilty to immorality was left in the custody of the Sheriff upon an order for the payment of costs, but with the expectation that a good home could be found for her where she would have the benefit of good examples and instructive care. Certainly a wise disposition made of the case by Judge Swope. There are seven other children in the family from which Mary was taken, and who are to be pitied. The State can receive no benefit from children brought up in such a home.

No pros were entered on motion of the District Attorney in the surety of the peace against David Rease, threats against Nellie Ketterman having been charged but not by her.

The report of viewers dividing Hamilton township into two election districts, which had been confirmed nisi on the 28th of April was confirmed absolute. Mrs. Kepner's summer house was fixed as the place of election, and the election officers of a new district No. 2 were appointed as follows: Harry Stahlte, Judge; John Barnes, Majority Inspector, both Leaning Democrats, and James Daywalt, Minority Inspector, Republican.

Return of sale of real estate of the Conewago Cigar Co., Ltd., to the First National Bank of Hanover for $3140, by John H. Brown and others, trustees, was confirmed absolutely.

On petition of J. L. Part, Esq., and George F. Hewitt, present owners of the real estate which had been conveyed to Henry A. Meals April 1st, 1872, subject to certain payments and conditions in favor of Jacob Meals who died in 1887, and more than 21 years having elapsed since the maturity of last payment and their being evidence of all the payments having been made, it was ordered that the lands be discharged from all the incumbrances.

In the appeal of W. D. Brown, Esq., treasurer of Straban township Road District from the report of township auditors, rule was awarded to have the exceptions entered of record and for court to direct an issue to determine disputed questions of fact.

John A. Nail was brought up on surety of the peace instituted by his wife Fannie D. Nail who has been living in York county. On motion of J. L. Williams, Esq., attorney for the husband the proceedings were quashed, for failure of the Justice of the Peace who committed the man to comply with the requirements of the Act of 1909, and no costs are to be paid.

It is important that Justices of the Peace throughout the county should keep in mind this very useful statute of 18th of March, 1909, which completely changes the old practice and which requires the Justice to hear and dispose of the case himself and not to bind over the defendant "unless the evidence shows to the satisfaction of the Justice, that the prosecutor's or prosecutrix's danger of being hurt in body or estate is actual, and that the threats were made by the defendant maliciously and with intent to do harm." The transcript of the Justice in this case failed to show that he entered into a full hearing and investigation of the facts. The preamble to this Act recites what is well known to be the truth, that such a proceeding is often hastily and thoughtlessly made; and great costs unjustly put upon the counties by having many trivial cases sent to court, and the Act is intended to remedy this evil and very wisely makes it the duty of a Justice, "To afford an opportunity and to suggest to the parties the propriety of compromising their differences before entering into a hearing."

Since adjournment of August court Sheriff Thompson has been to East Berlin by reason of the return of the constable of that borough about the slot machines and has put out of business all the slot machines and the owners have been held in $300 bail each to appear at the November court.

NEW DIRECTORY OF ADAMS COUNTY

Our representatives wear this badge.

The publishers of the old reliable FARM JOURNAL of Philadelphia, are preparing to publish the illustrated DIRECTORY OF ADAMS COUNTY, giving the name, post-office, rural route, and telephone connection of every farmer, business man, and householder in the county, all arranged alphabetically, and a classified BUSINESS DIRECTORY, including all business houses in the county, arranged under the proper headings.

With the Directory is given a complete ROAD MAP of the county, with every road NUMBERED to show the exact location of each farm, as given in the Directory.

This Directory will contain many interesting PICTURES of well-known farmers and business men of the county, fine farms, thoroughbred stock, churches and public institutions, schools and pupils, etc.

The names and necessary information are being secured by PERSONAL CANVASS of all houses and business places, and of the 3752 farms in the county. This Directory and Road Map are so useful and interesting that from our experience in other counties we can guarantee that the Directory will go into at least TWO THOUSAND HOMES OF ADAMS COUNTY, where it will be constantly used by farmers and business men for the next five years.

The Farm Journal Directories are an immense improvement over directories, containing what most publications do not give. Beside all the usual information, they give the names, addresses, telephone connection, and other important information about FARMERS, secured by PERSONAL CANVASS from each farmer himself. This canvass of country districts is so costly that most directory publishers cannot afford to make it, and ordinary lists of farmers published are in nearly all cases merely copied from official lists.

The classified BUSINESS DIRECTORY includes every business house in the county, whether in city or country. In other directories the names of houses in cities and large towns only are given.

These features with the ROAD Map, makes the Farm Journal Directory an indispensable hand-book for every live farmer and business man in the county.

If you are not sure that correct information about your farm or business has been given to one of our canvassers, please send it direct to our main office.

FACTS OF NATIONS AT WAR

STATISTICS OF LINE-UP FOR AND AGAINST GERMANY.

The Kaiser is Outnumbered But in Better Position on Land to Fight Than Foes.

The following facts will give some conception of the relative strength in wealth, military equipment, area and population of the nations at war:

STRENGTH OF GREAT BRITAIN.
Not counting the colonies, which are virtually independent nations, the British Isles have an area of 121,391 square miles and a population of 45,221,165. The wealth of the islands is estimated at $8,000,000,000 and the national debt is $3,485,000,000.

In its war equipment Great Britain relies on its great navy, which is admitted to be larger than the combined navies of any two other Powers. It has 77 battleships, 42 first-class cruisers and about 400 other war vessels of every description, manned by 137,500 men in peace or war, to which may be added 25,000 naval reserves. England's army is large and well drilled, but not to be compared in size with the immense forces of the Continental nations, because Great Britain has no compulsory military service, relying solely on volunteers. Its army on a war footing numbers about 800,000 men, but this number includes many who must stay in India and Egypt all the time and therefore cannot get into any European conflict.

STRENGTH OF FRANCE.
France has an area of 207,054 square miles and a population of 39,601,000. Its total wealth is estimated at $650,000,000 and its national debt is $6,283,000,000. France has the largest national debt in Europe, due to two reasons. First, because it had to pay such an enormous war indemnity to Germany after the Franco-Prussian war, and, second, because it has spent such enormous sums in the last 40 years in preparing for another war with Germany. In spite of its huge debt, France is the most prosperous nation of Europe. Although no exact figures are available, it is estimated by economists that there is a greater and more equal distribution of wealth among the French than any other people. The average Frenchman is said to be richer and more contented than any other man in the world.

In proportion to her population France's army is the largest in Europe, although in actual numbers it is exceeded by the German and Russian. France's army on a war footing numbers 1,999,000 men. They are the same kind of men who followed Napoleon in his many victorious campaigns—enthusiastically patriotic, wildly demonstrative, but the fiercest of fighters and the fastest of marchers. The French navy ranks fourth in the world coming after Great Britain, Germany and the United States. It consists of 32 battleships, 18 first-class cruisers and more than 300 other vessels, and is manned by 60,000 men. The French navy is expected to do its best work in the Mediterranean, leaving the German forces to the care of the British in the North Sea and the Atlantic.

STRENGTH OF RUSSIA.
Russia has an area of 8,647,000 square miles and a population of 166,000,000. Its total wealth is about $40,000,000,000. Although Russia is bigger in area and more numerous in population than either France or Germany, it cannot be compared with either in wealth or education. The Russian average man is the poorest in the world, except perhaps the Cinnaman.

Yet Russia has an enormous army, the largest in the world, and a navy that has considerable strength. Russia's army numbers 5,500,000 men. Part of this army was badly beaten by the Japs only a few years ago, but it is said that the Russians learned much from that war, and that their army has improved wonderfully since its defeat. However, that is yet to be proved. The Russian navy consists of 21 battleships and six first-class cruisers, as well as about 200 other war craft. It is expected that this navy will be able to crush Germany on the Baltic, provided England keeps the main part of the German navy busy in the North Sea and the Atlantic.

When the European war started Belgium was not considered a factor, but so far this little nation has borne the brunt of the war. In order to get to France the German army has tried to cross Belgium, regardless of that nation's protest. The result has been that the Belgians were forced to fight, and they have fought so well that the Germans have been held back at Liege, while the French are massing their army.

Now that Belgium is definitely in the fight it is well to consider her strength. Belgium is a rich, busy, crowded little country. It is only 13,378 square miles in extent, but it has 7,432,000 people within its borders and a national wealth of about $12,000,000,000. Belgium's debt amounts to $769,632,000. It is not generally known that Antwerp, the chief seaport of Belgium, is the second most important port in the world, New York being first.

Belgium's army numbers 222,000 men and her navy is rather small, so that it cannot be considered a factor in the present situation.

STRENGTH OF SERBIA.
Serbia is being relied upon by the Powers opposed to Germany to keep the main part of the Austrian army busy in the Balkans. Serbia is 28,661 square miles in extent and has a population of about 4,000,000. Its army numbers 240,000. There are no figures available concerning the national wealth or debt of Serbia. On account of huge expenditures on the Balkan wars of two years ago, however, it is known that Serbia is heavily in debt and can afford a war only with the financial aid of Russia.

Against this vast combination of financial and military strength are lined-up the two compact empires of Germany and Austria-Hungary. Their strength is as follows:

STRENGTH OF GERMANY.
Germany has an area of 208,730 square miles and has 64,925,000 people in her borders. Her total wealth is estimated at $60,000,000,000 and her national debt is $4,900,000,000. Germany's advance in population, industry and wealth has all been since the Franco-Prussian war, 43 years ago. Germany has advanced more than any other nation in Europe in the last few years, in every way except in the freedom of her people. Particularly striking has been the spread of German commerce throughout the world and the building of German merchant ships. Although she has only a short seacoast, Germany has become the second maritime power of the world and has been giving Great Britain a close race for first place.

Germany has an army of 5,200,000 men, all trained to the highest state of efficiency. Germany is supposed to be more ready for war than any other nation of Europe. Her navy, the second largest in the world, has 46 battleships, 9 first-class cruisers, and more than 200 other sea-fighters. It is manned by 66,700 men. The various fine passenger steamers of the Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd Lines may also be added to the German navy, making a magnificent fleet, almost equal to that of Great Britain.

STRENGTH OF AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.
In everything, Austria has followed Germany for the last 20 years at least. But Austria has had internal troubles which have prevented her growth and held her back where Germany went ahead. In Germany, nearly all the people are Teutons, of the same race, with the same national feelings and aspirations. Consequently they could be welded into one united nation, strong in every way. On the other hand, Austria-Hungary is made up of three distinct races with a hundred smaller subdivisions. Austria itself is Teutonic, the greater part of Hungary is Magyar, while the lower sections of the Empire are all Slav. These Slavs have not approved of Austria's close kinship to Germany and have rather favored their own kinsmen, the Serbians and even the Russians. Therefore, Austria is the weaker part of the German-Austrian alliance.

Austria has 261,029 square miles of area and a population of 51,240,000. Her national wealth is estimated at $25,000,000,000, and her debt is $1,051,000,000. She has an army of 2,000,000 men and a navy consisting of 13 battleships, 3 first-class cruisers and about 100 other vessels. Considering Austria's meagre coast line on the Adriatic, this navy is very large.

STRENGTH AGAINST ALLIANCE.
The total armed strength against Germany and Austria consists of armies numbering 10,500,000 men and navies with 120 battleships, 63 first-class cruisers and 800 other vessels of war.

GERMAN-AUSTRIAN STRENGTH.
Germany and Austria combined have 7,200,000 men in their armies and a combined navy of 59 battleships, 12 first-class cruisers and 400 other vessels.

WHAT EQUALIZES CONTEST.

At first glance it would seem that Germany and Austria were hopelessly outclassed by the other nations. However, there are some things which equalizes the contest. In the first place, Austria and Germany lie close together. By keeping their armies on the borders, they have an immense interior to draw upon for food and supplies. They have very short seacoasts well protected by immense forts, so that their navies are not needed along the coasts, but may wander about the seas, making war on the commerce of their enemies. They can put their entire strength into the field against their enemies.

On the other hand, the allies against Germany have long sea coasts, which require protection, especially England. France can rely upon itself for provisions, but England must keep her sea routes open or else starve half its population to death. France can hurl most of its army against Germany, but England must keep part of its army in India and Egypt and must keep another part at home. Russia also can spare only part of its great land force against the Germans.

Germany and Austria are surrounded on all sides by foes. It is evident that Germany relies upon Austria to defeat Serbia and to hold back Russia, while Germany tackles France on land and England on sea.

DISTANCES IN EUROPE.

Another thing about which Americans are not fully informed is the list of distances between points throughout Europe. From Berlin to Paris is 674 miles. Liege, in Belgium, where fighting has gone on, is 208 miles from Paris and 482 miles from Berlin, almost on a direct line between the two capitals. All the other points on the Franco-German border are nearer Paris than Berlin. For instance, Luxembourg is 380 miles from Berlin and 302 miles from Paris. Metz is 425 miles from Berlin and 300 miles from Paris. On the other side, it is only 175 miles from Berlin to the Russian border. From Vienna to Berlin is 427 miles, and from Vienna to Belgrade is only 171 miles. From London to Paris is 287 miles and from London to Berlin is 746 miles. From Berlin to St. Petersburg is 1091 miles.

Human Nature.

Oh, ain't it awful funny?
How some folks is hard to please?
Some wants a lot of money
Jes' their neighbors poor to tease.
An' then there's folks who's got it
Who keep wishin' on fer more.
Jes' seems that they can't help it
How their calkerlations soar.

"It's sinful," says Jane Becky,
"An' they'll find it out some day.
They'll rue the day directly—
Jes' remember what I say!
Folks should jes' be satisfied
With the things that they have got.
As fer me, to hum I'm tied
When we own this house and lot!"

Sez I to my Jane Becky
When we took the place out here.
Sez I, "Won't we be happy
When the mortgages is clear?"
Well, we cleared 'em off last June.
An' as true as old Sam Hill
We're a wishin' a new tune—
It's a orteramobile!"

Hanover's Big Week.

The week of September 15th to 19th will witness one of the most imposing events ever seen in Hanover. During this week, the Hanover Agricultural Society will celebrate its 30th anniversary by holding a Carnival and Night Fair; as well as a big Civic Demonstration Day, on Saturday morning, September 19th, in connection with its regular annual Fair. The grounds will be open to the public Tuesday morning, September 15th and will remain open until midnight, Saturday, September 19th.

The Night Fair and Carnival will be one of the great features of the occasion. Upwards of five thousand electric lights have already been installed on the grounds. It will surely resemble a "real fairy land." The display of fire works on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights will be the most complete ever witnessed in Southern Pennsylvania. The special attractions which have been secured for both day and night are equal, if not superior, to those seen at many of our largest fairs. It will surely be the greatest week ever held in old Hanover and the town will be taxed to its utmost to handle the throngs who will be sure to take advantage of this occasion.

Saturday will witness the grand climax, as there is no question but that it will be the biggest day recorded in the history of this town. The monster parade at 9:30 a. m. with upwards of sixty floats in line and will extend a distance of at least three miles in length. It will be a sight worth coming miles to behold. Saturday afternoon and evening will reveal the crowning events of this occasion on the Fair grounds. The Carnival will be in full blast. Special horse racing has been booked and other attractive features have been secured to entertain the crowds that are sure to come.

Speakers of state and national prominence will be here and every effort will be made until the fair closes, which will wind up with the most gorgeous display of fire works ever seen here.

This event will go down in history as the grandest week Hanover has ever known. Every minute of every hour of every day, will witness some feature of imposing and pleasurable entertainment. Remember the dates—September 15th to 19th, inclusive.

Rights of Pennsylvania Hunters.

For the information of the sportsmen of the State, Secretary Kabbius, of the State Game Commission, has written a bulletin which explains just what the rights of hunters are under the national and the State laws relating to the shooting of redbirds and wild waterfowl in Pennsylvania.

"Under the laws of Pennsylvania," he explains, "the open season for redbirds and shore birds in Pennsylvania extends from the first day of September to the first day of January next following. Under the same law the open season for wild waterfowl begins on the same date, September 1, and extends to the 10th day of April next following. An act was passed by Con-

HOW CHILDREN GROW

Children grow by nourishment—not overloaded stomachs or rich foods but qualities that are readily converted into life-sustaining blood; too often their digestive powers cannot procure these qualities from ordinary foods which results in weakness, dullness and sickness.

If your children are under-size, underweight, catch cold easily, are languid, backward, pale or frail, give them Scott's Emulsion which is pure medicinal nourishment. It sharpens the appetite, builds healthy flesh, firm muscles and active brains. Scott's is growing-food for children. Refuse alcoholic substitutes.

gress during the summer of 1913, giving to the Agricultural Department of the United States the right to control the killing of migratory birds of all kinds, song and insectivorous birds as well as game birds. The season during which game birds may be legally killed is not fixed by this act of Congress, but instead this matter is left entirely to the Department of Agriculture at Washington, those in charge of the matter having the power to change or alter their regulations in any manner in accord with their own thought upon this subject, upon receiving the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture and that of the President of the United States, and the publication of such changes for three months.

"In Pennsylvania we have what is known as a resident hunter's license act, requiring hunters residing in this Commonwealth to secure a license before hunting for birds or animals protected by the laws of this State. Each hunter upon the payment of $1 receives a resident hunter's license in form supplied by the State. For the convenience of sportsmen the office of the Game Commission of Pennsylvania last spring prepared a summary of our game laws, also the national regulations affecting hunting in Pennsylvania, which summary we had printed on the back of the license to be issued to each hunter upon application. When this summary was prepared and printed by the State every statement found therein was correct. Lately changes have been made by the committee of the Agricultural Department having control of these regulations, and I desire to call attention of hunters at this time to differences between the regulations as they now exist, and as printed on the back of the resident hunter's licenses for 1914.

"At the time these licenses were prepared it would have been illegal to kill a redbird in Pennsylvania at any time, the committee of the Agricultural Department at Washington having classified this bird as an insectivorous bird under the name of bobolink. Lately this regulation has been altered and sportsmen in Pennsylvania are permitted to shoot bobolinks under the name of redbirds in Pennsylvania during the months of September and October.

"Under the Regulations from Washington, as in force at the time the resident hunter's licenses were prepared, wild waterfowl, excepting swan and wood-duck, could be killed in this State from the first of September to December 15, inclusive. Under a regulation recently promulgated by the Agricultural Department at Washington the open season for wild waterfowl, excepting swan and wood-duck, opens in Pennsylvania on the first of October, instead of the first of September, and extends to the 15th of January, inclusive. Instead of closing on the 15th of December, as stated on the back of the license, as it is necessary before these regulations may become effective to publish them for three months, and as this publication was not started at Washington until the 27th of June, 1914, the time limit as fixed for publication cannot effect the opening of the season for wild waterfowl in Pennsylvania for this year, and ducks may, therefore, be legally killed in Pennsylvania both under our State law and under the National Regulations from the first of September to the 15th day of January, inclusive.

"In 1915 the open season for wild waterfowl will begin October 1 instead of September 1.

"Swan and wood-duck cannot be legally killed in Pennsylvania before September 1, 1915.

"The National Regulations take precedence over the State law, and I am adopting this method of calling the attention of hunters to these matters so that neither inconvenience nor trouble may come to them."

The Eleventh Hour

Do you belong to the army of the Eleventh Hour? Do you pant through the station gates a moment before the train leaves? Keep your engagements and transact your business with the lash of Father Time snapping behind you? If you do, perhaps you pride yourself on belonging to the Eleventh Hour brigade and talk knowingly of how much better you work "under pressure." Don't be deceived.

You are perfectly aware that the chauffeur who runs his car at break-neck speed, slams on the brake when he wants to stop and who always takes the high gear, "just to show what the engine can do," has little consideration for the continued efficiency of his machine. The finest motor ever built is but a fraction as long-lived as the human engine.

So it behooves everyone to bear in mind that the wear and tear of working under strain and continually driving business on high gear, cannot be continued without risk.

Fortunately employers and employees are coming to realize that a certain degree of relaxation increases efficiency. However, there are thousands of business men who drive themselves relentlessly with an indifference which they would never permit an employee to display in handling the least costly equipment. The nerve force that proves so successful as a motive power, when exhausted results in complete breakdown.

A reasonable degree of deliberation and the exercise of forethought may save you much mental and physical strain without the least impairment of efficiency.

PALMER PROVES PENROSE GUILTY

Will Present Indictment of 50
Counts Against Him.

ASSAILS SENATOR FOR ABSENCE

Democratic Candidate Promises Hot Shot on September 8. Will Sacrifice Pay to Expose Penroseism.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.
Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer
has announced his purpose to begin on September 8, at Bethlehem the systematic exposure of the record of Senator Boies Penrose in the United States senate by filling an indictment of fifty separate counts against him. These will then be taken up one by one on succeeding days
and proved by the documentary records. They are expected to form one of the most remarkable features of the campaign.

The Congressman also declared his intention of sacrificing his salary for the next two months, if necessary, in order to carry on the war against Penroseism in Pennsylvania. He will return to Washington when necessary for public business.

In a statement issued here, he said:
"I shall find it absolutely necessary to absent myself from the sessions of the House during a portion of the time between now and election. The interests of my constituents will not suffer, for I shall pair with an absent Republican, whose vote will thus be killed by mine. My office here will be constantly open and my assistants will take care of the great volume of routine departmental business which comes to me here.

"I am very willing to sacrifice the $20.00 a day, or thereabouts, which I shall have to give up on account of the resolution passed yesterday, because I know that the work in which I shall be engaged in Pennsylvania will be far more valuable to the people whom I represent, and to the State of Pennsylvania, than the $20.00
a day would be to me. My opponent, Senator Penrose, has been in his seat
only seven days since last December.
He is the most conspicuous and notorious absentee in either House of Congress. He has been so concerned about his re-election that he has devoted practically all his time to repairing his failing political fortunes.
He has visited counties in the state which he never designed to look in upon during his eighteen years of service as Senator, when he depended upon a pliant legislature to return him.

"Penrose's long service presents a record of misrepresentation which is a blight upon the fair name of the State. I propose to expose this record throughout Pennsylvania, and having been nominated by the Democatic Party for the purpose of making this fight, I feel that I can best serve the people of the State by presenting and providing an indictment against Senator Penrose which will convince the people that his official acts have been uniformly against their interests.

"I propose on September 8th, at Bethlehem, to present that indictment against Senator Penrose. It will contain fifty counts. It will show a course of official misconduct on his part which will amaze the people whom he is supposed to represent. During the eight weeks between that and the election I shall publicly prove from the record every one of these counts
in the indictment against Penrose.
They are of such a nature that, when proven, the people of Pennsylvania will repudiate him because he is guilty.

"I shall, of course, be in Washington
when my presence is necessary; but I am quite sure that the people of the State will want to hear about Penrose's record and will expect to have the issue discussed.

"With the exception of about three weeks before the primaries, when I was engaged in that campaign, and about a month, off and on, when I have been compelled to be absent on account of illness, I have been in Washington attending to my public duties constantly. My record in that regard presents a rather striking contrast to the situation in the Senate
where Pennsylvania has been practically unrepresented for months. Senator Oliver being in Europe and Senator Penrose bustling about in Pennsylvania.

DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN PLANS

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 31.—Announcement has been made at Democratic State Headquarters that the speaking tour of the State candidate will open at Bethlehem on September 8th. A.
Mitchell Palmer, Democratic candidate for United States Senator; Vance
C. McCormick, candidate for Governor; William T. Cressey, candidate for Lieutenant Governor; William N. Mc-Nair, candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs; and the four candidates for Congressman-at-large, Robert J.
Bright, Arthur D. Clark, Martin J.
Caton and Charles N. Croston, will all be present at this meeting and make addresses. From this date until election day the candidates will be continuously on the stump, and have planned to enter practically every county of the State and speak at nearly every important town. Autum-nial canvasses of the rural districts will also be made wherever possible.

ADOPTING THE PLATFORM

RESPECTABLE GOVERNORS.

The painful effort of the Penrose Republican machine to conceal itself behind the "respectable" Brumbaugh mask, and at the same time to keep the Brumbaugh respectability itself untarnished, has now reached its climax. Dr. Brumbaugh has opened his campaign. He has appeared before the admiring machine hosts in loving embrace with the senior senator, has spoken from the same platform, cheered the same sentiments, and accepted the same program of evasion and misrepresentation.

The plunge having been taken, it is now to be expected that Dr. Brumbaugh will no longer hesitate to state his exact position upon the one great issue before the people of Pennsylvania, and he must understand that no doubtful answer will be accepted, and that no fine rhetoric will serve him in this extremity. He must speak out plainly, definitely and unequivocally.
Is he or is he not for Penrose and Penroseism? Will he or will he not, if elected, strive to uproot the vicious system of corrupt politics with which his sponsors have been identified? Does he regard it as a part of his duty to see that it no longer dominates Pennsylvania government, and if he recognizes this duty, how does he propose to end this domination?

It is not too much to ask of him that he step down off the pedestal of eminent respectability, to which he has been raised by the Vane-McNichol machine, and answer these pointed questions. It is especially his duty to do so, in view of the sad experience of this commonwealth with other "respectable" figureheads for the Penrose organization. Governor Pennypacker had been a "respectable" judge before; yet the capitol scandal grew up under his very eyes. Governor Stuart had been a "respectable" mayor of Philadelphia; yet the Rittersville hospital scandal flourished during his term. Governor Hoyt was a "respectable" governor; yet at the end of his administration he publicly admitted that he had been unable to make any headway against the evil forces that dominated the Republican organization.

Respectability is not enough. The people demand absolute independence of thought and action, and no man who is willing to be the mask of a corrupt machine, and who is acceptable in every way to that machine, can be respectable enough and independent enough for the people in this crisis.

If Penrose had had his way, the United States would be at war with Mexico, and instead of moving forward to grasp new commercial opportunities the country itself would be paralyzed and its resources drained.

THE PENROSE CONFESSION.

State Chairman Roland S. Morris, of the Democratic party, delivered a body blow at the Penrose candidacy a few days ago, when he pointed out the consistency with which Penrose had blundered into stupid confessions during the past few weeks.

"First," said Mr. Morris, "Penrose condemns the president for not halting the war in Europe; then, sneering at the Bryan peace treaties, he declares that no power on earth could have prevented the conflict in the present crisis.

"Then, on the very day on which orderly government in Mexico is restored he complains because President Wilson did not forcibly intervene in Mexico at tremendous cost of life and money. To complete the comedy, he repudiates his resolution of Aug. 21, 1913, requesting the president to send the army to Mexico as a constabulary and appropriating $25,000,000 for the expense. This would have meant certain war.

"He caps the climax of his blundering by admitting that for fifty years, during which the Republican party was in power, it permitted our merchant marine practically to disappear without lifting a finger to save it. On the same day the president and congress were busy in an effort to restore the American flag to the front rank on the seas."

Wilson or war—which? Penrose or peace—which?

The Penrose Brumbaugh platform is out. What difference does it make?
Did the Penrose organization ever fulfill a platform promise?

"TRUE BLUE" BOYS POPULAR.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 31.
Judging by the interest already shown in all parts of the state in "The Friends of Pennsylvania" movement, recently launched by Vance C. Mc-Cormick, Democratic candidate for governor, this new plan to strike down Penroseism and keep it permanently out of power in Pennsylvania has struck a responsive chord. Requests for buttons and pledges and explanatory literature are coming in from all parts of the state, and the movement is spreading among the boys like wildfire.

The plan as announced by Mr. Mc-Cormick last week is for the organization of a league known as "The Friends of Pennsylvania" among the boys of the state, the purpose of the league being to train up a generation of young men devoted to the best interest of the state, and to making permanent the overthrow of any corrupt institution that rears its head. Each member is asked to sign a pledge, in which he promises to defend the good name of his state, and to be a free, fearless and patriotic citizen; to use his sincerest and most intelligent efforts to learn the facts concerning political conditions and candidates, and to oppose, with all his might, any man or party that is unworthy of the best ideals of Pennsylvania. The motto of the league is "I am for Pennsylvania," and each member has a badge consisting of a "true blue" button, on the center of which is printed the motto.

The organization of this "true blue"
boys' league is only one evidence of the confidence that Mr. McCormick and the Democratic leaders feel in the result of any movement aimed to purify conditions in the state. They believe that those forces in the state which are opposed to Penroseism, will eventually concentrate into a Democratic banner, realizing the capacity and ability that characterizes the Democratic candidates. In accordance with this purpose, and in line with this confidence, they are lending their aid to every movement, regardless of party or partisanship, that has the overthrow of corrupt politics as its aim.

Memoirs of Napoleon

In Three Volumes

The personal reminiscences of Baron de Méneval, for thirteen years private secretary to Napoleon Bonaparte, bring out, as no history can, many enlightening and interesting side lights on the character of that greatest of leaders. De Méneval's descriptions have the piquancy and interest possible only because he was an actual eyewitness of the scenes and incidents of which he writes.
Their reliability and historical interest can be judged by the fact that the very conservative French Academy publicly recommends them.

"I don't see how we lived without the telephone"

It's the old story of not realizing the merits of a thing until its usefulness has been demonstrated.

Even if you feel that a Bell Telephone would be a joy in your home, you fail to quite realize how great a comfort and help it is going to be.

If you did realize it, you wouldn't be without a telephone for a single day.

Style Announcement From the September Ladie's Home Journal

Wooltex—the best there is in women's garments

Suit No. 1157

A VERY striking adaptation of a Drecoll model is reproduced in this misses Suit No. 1157.

The jacket has a large velvet collar, edged with Roman striped cloth, and an exceedingly novel belt, slipped through belt straps. This effect is also carried out in the cuffs.

The skirt is a plain long-tunic over a Roman striped underskirt, and the bottom of the jacket is trimmed with Roman stripe to match the skirt.

This is especially recommended for afternoon and school wear. Price, $37.50.

Suit No. 1036

THE modish semi-blouse jacket effect is most beautifully expressed by Wooltex Suit No. 1036.

This is a reproduction of one of Poiret's smartest models.

The effective collar and the cuffs are richly trimmed with fur, which is continued down the front of the coat.

The skirt is cut on straight lines, with pleats in the back and a fancy belt-effect at the waist-line, similar to that on the jacket.

This suit is particularly recommended for theatre and calling. Price, $50.00.

Suit No. 1010

A BEAUTIFUL expression of the straight line effect in vogue this fall is represented by Suit No. 1010.

The jacket has a high waist-line at the back, and a slightly curvaway front, with a decorative flare collar of velvet, matching the cloth, which comes in all the popular shades. The back shows a slight fullness below the hips, giving the modish rippling effect.

The skirt has an imitation Russian long-tunic effect and pleats provide ample walking room.

The bride will find this suit especially attractive as a traveling costume. Price, $27.50.

The Wooltex fall book aptly called "STYLE," with articles and pictures of fascinating interest, by well-known writers and painters, mailed to you on request.

Commissioners Pay Bounties.

The County Commissioners recently

resolved to pay bounties on noxious animals from Sept. 1 to Sept. 15, and the demand for the bounties began promptly on Sept. 1 and already over $500 has been paid out on vouchers

issued by the County Commissioners. It is thought the greater portion of the claims have already been paid for nearly all the Justices of the Peace

have been in with certificates of claims left with them for collection.

All certificates presented were not in shape for a voucher to be issued. In some cases it had not been certified that skin of the face had been split

from between the eyes through the end of the nose. This must be done by the Justice and if not done bounty can not be collected. There were certificates for minks not included in act and the hides being worth more than the bounty. There were certificates for foxes and the law only applies to the grey and not the red fox.

These bounties must be paid by the

Adams County Sabbath School Association was held last Thursday and Friday at St. John's Church near Littlestown and the attendance of one hundred and eighteen delegates and many other people of Littlestown and vicinity proved very encouraging to a

ing methods to interest the boys so that the accomplishments of their energy would contrast better with the energy of women and girls in church and Sunday School work. Rev. T. C.

Hesson spoke on "A Child for Christ"

and pointed out how easily the child is led to Christ by proper training and that the work of the Sunday School was to save and not to train for Christ.

The first address at the Thursday evening session was by Rev. W. K.

Fleck of Fairfield on "Teaching Temperance in the Sabbath School," in which the slaughter in the European war was compared with the annual slaughter in this country by King Alcohol and urged that nothing be left undone in the fight to save the boys and girls for themselves, for time and eternity. The closing address was by

P. A. Elsessor on "The Great Commission."

Friday morning Rev. C. A. Oliver of York spoke on "The Call for Trained

Sabbath School Teachers and Officers,"

being in line with the need of every phase of life, for trained workers.

ing talk on "Sunday School Evangelism in the Class," telling of the work done by the class of which she is the teacher. W. G. Landis, secretary of the State organization closed the morning session with a talk on Sunday

School work and urged Adams county

Remains of Three Soldiers.

The remains of three Union soldiers buried on the First Day's Field were uncovered last week by George Woodward on the Almshouse farm while he was hunting bullets. With the bones were found some money, a number of buttons and two bullets, possibly responsible for the death of one or more of the men. Some belongings of the men who met their death on Gettysburg's field were found with the bones.

When Woodward had gotten about 12 inches below the surface he struck

some grey matter, which he examined more closely and found it to be the bone of a human leg. He dug more carefully then and uncovered all the main bones of the arms and legs of three men.

THE INSANE AND CRIMINAL.

The Quaker Friends of These Unfortunate Classes.

For more than a century the name of Tuke has been one to conjure with in the philanthropic world in England. William Tuke was born in 1732, in a Quaker home in York, which was the Roman capital of Britain. As a young man he began to consider man's inhumanity to man, in the crude and cruel treatment which was bestowed upon the unfortunate insane in England. Being a practical man, and not merely a theorizer, in 1792 he started the Retreat in York, which soon became a sample English institution for the care of the insane. Out of this experiment grew constructive legislation for this unfortunate class. William's son Henry followed in the footsteps of his father. Henry's son Samuel continued the work, and wrote books on the care of the insane, which were widely circulated, and helped produce a moral revolution throughout Europe in the management of the insane. James Hack Tuke, Samuel's son, turned his philanthropic activities in the direction of pauperism, and especially as it existed in Ireland. Daniel Hack Tuke, the brother of James, became the literary genius of the family. He published a "Manual of Psychological Medicine," and in his later life edited the "Journal of Mental Science." In 1852 he became a member of the Royal College of Surgeons. He devoted much of his time to the York Retreat.

When William Tuke opened the York Institution, the mediaeval idea of insanity, which considered it the result of demonical possession, had not yet disappeared. Harmless lunatics roamed the country at will, and the dangerous sort were confined in dungeons, and kept in chains, and otherwise maltreated. The shrine cures were resorted to, and the idea of miraculous healing was in the air.

Insanity a Disease.

With the coming of the Tuke idea, the fact that insanity is a disease took root, and the result from this small beginning is seen in the variety of hospitals for the treatment of these unfortunate, to be found all over the civilized world, and especially in Christian countries. It is impossible to estimate the good which followed the reform advocated and instituted by William Tuke.

The Prisoners' Friend.

William Tuke was nearly fifty years old when Elizabeth Fry, the mother of the Prison Reform movement, was born. She was the daughter of John Gurney, and the sister of Joseph John Gurney, the evangelistic Quaker preacher. In 1800 Elizabeth Gurney married Joseph Fry, a London merchant, and went to live in the English metropolis. While still a young girl at Parham Hall, Elizabeth exhibited marked philanthropic tendencies. After her sojourn in London, she was unwearied in her attention to the poor and neglected of her neighborhood. At this time Newgate Prison represented all that was repulsive, and possibly inhuman, in the prison life of England. She made several visits to Newgate before her constructive plans for prison betterment took shape. In 1817 Mrs. Fry organized the Association for the Improvement of the Female Prisoners in Newgate. Mrs. Fry made visits to the prisons of England and Scotland. Later she gave her attention to prisons in Ireland, and in 1838 she obtained official permission to visit all of the prisons in France. Practically all of continental Europe was benefited by her ministrations. Her suggestions were considered by parliamentary bodies, and many of them were embodied in penal legislation.

Some of the most fundamental features of modern prison discipline were devised by Mrs. Fry. Such, for instance, as the entire separation of the sexes, classification of criminals, female supervision for women, provision for their religious and secular instruction, and also their useful employment.

It is natural to suppose that Mrs. Fry may have been influenced by the work of John Howard, who was in the midst of his investigations of prison conditions, when Elizabeth Gurney was born. These conditions were found to be horribly wretched, almost beyond description. All that the twentieth century now does in the way of prison reform, had its inception in the work of John Howard and Elizabeth Fry.

Mrs. Fry was a recorded minister in the Society of Friends, and acknowledged that her practical religious interest were inspired by the teachings of William Savory, a well-known American Friend and minister, who visited England when she was a young woman.

They Didn't Chatter.

A doctor attended an old lady from Scotland who had caught a severe cold. "Did your teeth chatter when you felt the chill coming over you?" asked the doctor.

"I didn't, doctor; they were lying on the table!" was the pleasant reply. —New York Globe.

Prepared to Be Possimistic.

An exact illustration of pessimism was that given by an elderly person who remarked one sunny morning: "I have a premonition that something is going to happen today. I don't know what, but I won't like it." —Collier's Weekly.

A Good Sized Ballot.

The ballot to be voted next November, as prepared in the State Department to be certified to county commissioners, will be sent out shortly so that there may be no hitch in the printing after the names of candidates on nomination papers have been received and the period for withdrawals and contests expires.

The ballots contains five columns. The first contains the party names, opposite each name being a square in which a voter can mark a cross to vote an entire straight ticket. There are eight of these party names with squares—Democratic, Washington, Republican, Socialist, Bull Moose, Roosevelt Progressive, Prohibition and Keystone. The second column is the non-partisan column and contains the names of the nominees for judges of the supreme and superior courts. The third column contains the names of the State candidates for United States Senator, Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Secretary of Internal Affairs. The third column contains the names of Congressman at-large and the fourth column is used for the names of congressmen, senators and representatives in the General Assembly.

The names on the present ballot are those of candidates nominated at the primary election, and to these, under the various office heads, will be added the names of those to go on the ballot by nomination papers. While not so bulky and unwieldy as some previous ballots, the present one is still in marked contrast to the old vest pocket ballot.

Milk Producer's Executive Committee.

P. A. T. Bower, president of the Adams County Milk Producers' Protective Association, has announced the appointment of the Executive Committee as follows: P. A. T. Bower, Table Rock; G. S. Bucher, R. R. 5; R. E. Major, Gettysburg; Martin Kime, R. R. 12; H. J. VanDyke, R. R. 6; E. E. Lobaugh, York Springs; L. A. Yeagy, R. R. 7; Legrand Josephson, Gettysburg.

This committee is given power to fix and govern the prices of milk, and is to demand from the milk companies payment semi-monthly instead of monthly, as is now the practice. Meetings of farmers interested in milk and milk products are being held in different parts of the county and local organizations are being urged.

Will Men Be Better For It All.

Will men be better for it all? When silence stars the bugle call. When peace once more around the earth Shall sprinkle balm of myrrh and mirth, Will men put off their hate and pride And marching brother side by side In the great phalanx of the years Vow faith and love beyond the tears?

Will life be sweeter in the end For all the price we pay, my friend? Will war, with all its challenge mend The wrong that slumbers in the breast Of all the anger and unrest Of peoples striving day and night To reach beyond the battle's crest Unto the golden hills of light?

Oh, if these things could come of it The heart could bear a little bit More sweetly all the gloom and gray That grows from out the burning fray The passionate charge, the sinking ships, The bubbling blood on dying lips, The carnage and the pain and woe— But men are not made better so!

The U. S. Government in its "Pure Food Law" does not "endorse" or "guarantee" any preparation, as some manufacturers in their advertisements would make it appear. In the case of medicine the law provides that certain drugs shall be mentioned on the label, if they are ingredients of the preparations. Ely's Cream Balm, the well-known family remedy for cold in the head, hay fever and nasal catarrh, does not contain a single injurious drug, so the makers have simply to print the fact that it complies fully with all the requirements of the law.
